England, France Promise Poland Armed Support

Without mentioning Germany, the prime minister stated Britain's position thus:

"In the event of any action which clearly threatened Polish independence and which the Polish government accordingly considered it vital to resist with their national forces, His Majesty's government would feel themselves bound at once to lend the Polish government all support in their power."

"They have given the Polish government an assurance to this effect."

"I may add that the French government have authorized me to make it plain that they stand in the same position in this matter as do His Majesty's government."

The statement went beyond any (Continued on Page Two)

2 CARS WRECKED IN BIGLERVILLE CRASH; 2 HURT

Two drivers were slightly injured and their cars were badly damaged in a collision on East York street in Biglerville Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock. State motor police from Gettysburg investigated and stated they will file a motor code violation charge against one driver.

Lester Roth, 23, Biglerville, whose 1930 model car was demolished in the accident, is to be accused before Justice of the Peace John H. Deatrick, Biglerville, of failing to yield half the highway to oncoming traffic.

The collision occurred on the curve in the street near the Kline-felter barrel factory as Roth was driving east and Maurice E. Pennypacker, 35, a Philadelphia insurance agent, was traveling in the opposite direction. Pennypacker later told Officer Glen F. Henry he saw Roth approaching on what appeared to be the proper side of the highway but as the cars neared he saw the Roth car take the left lane and drive directly into the path of the Philadelphia car.

Pennypacker is reported to have swerved to the right and driven one wheel of his car onto the pavement along the north side of the highway before he was hit. The left fronts of the two cars collided. Damage to Pennypacker's 1938 model machine was placed at about $200.

Roth's only injury was a minor cut on the left leg below the knee. Pennypacker suffered bruises of the forehead and cuts on the right leg. He complained, too, of an abdominal injury. The steering wheel of his car was bent badly when he was thrown forward against it. Both drivers rode alone.

Councilmen Study New Building Ordinance; Fire Zone Would Be Enlarged

When members of the Gettysburg borough council met for their regular April session in the engine house next Monday evening one important matter in which they are scheduled to take action is that of the proposed new building ordinance for Gettysburg.

The 27-page measure, introduced at the March meeting by the safety committee, was drawn by the National Board of Fire Underwriters and promises some reduction in certain fire rates. Copies of the measure, which is described as being far more extensive and "more drastic" than the present building ordinance, are being studied by members of council.

A half hour's discussion at the last meeting of council, at which the lengthy ordinance was not read,

ADAMS SENIORS WRITE LEGION ESSAYS TODAY

Adams county high school seniors engaged this afternoon in writing essays of from 800 to 1,000 words in the contest sponsored by the three American Legion posts of the county with a Pennsylvania State college scholarship, cash and Legion citations awaiting the winners.

Letters mailed to each of the nine high school principals in the county on Thursday by Frank J. Slonaker, representing the three-post committee which arranged for the essay contest, informed the school officials that the sub-topic for the essays today is "Religious, Civil and Political Freedom" under the general essay theme of "The Contribution of the American Form of Government to Democracy."

Pupils were not advised which of the several sub-topics which had been announced as possible themes had been selected until 1 o'clock this afternoon when they gathered to write the papers under the direct supervision of the principals or teachers designated specially for the work.

In Mr. Slonaker's letter on Thursday he asked each principal to select the three best essays from his school and to forward them to the county superintendent's office at the county house on Monday.

Then the winning essays will be chosen by nine judges, each representing a high school district. Announcement of the winners of the contest will be made at a regular meeting of the Albert J. Lentz post No. 202 of the Legion here on the evening of April 17. The essayists will be there and the winners will be presented with their prizes by State Senator John S. Rice.

The first prize is a four-year scholarship to Pennsylvania State college amounting to about $100 each year. Second prize will be $25 in cash and the third award will be $15 in cash. American Legion citations for Americanism will be awarded the writer of the best essay from each school.

The papers are to be judged for English, originality, structure, evidence of ability to reason and for research.

WILL ORGANIZE MT. VERNON CLUB

Meetings of four adult foods and home management clubs will be held next week in Adams county and a meeting for the organization of the second 4-H club this season in the county also will be conducted, it was announced today by Miss Mildred L. Next Monday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock Miss Adams will organize a 4-H club at Horner's school in Mt. Joy township, near Barlow.

Adult club meetings will be held during the next week as follows: Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. A. D. Weikert, Greenmount foods club; Tuesday afternoon at the same hour, Brush-ton home management club at the home of Mrs. Henry Lawrence; Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock, Abbotstown foods club at the home of Mrs. Amos Kuhn, and Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, Round Top foods club at the home of Mrs. John Goodermuth.

brought forth sharp opposition to the new code with Burgess C. A. Helges and some members of council questioning whether the demands made by the new measure would be offset by the insurance rate reductions.

Would Extend Fire Zone

Councilmen have been informed that if the proposed measure is adopted in its entirety a reduction of 10 cents would be allowed on the premium for each $1,000 of insurance carried for certain types of buildings. The passage of the ordinance would bring reductions only to "mercantile and manufacturing" risks and would not affect rates on schools, churches, dwellings or furniture, insurance men have stated.

A proposal that is expected to be renewed Monday evening is that the present ordinance be revised instead of adopting the new measure.

One important provision of the proposed measure is that it abolishes the present fire zone which extends 1,000 feet from center square and makes the borough boundaries the limits of the fire zone.

Provision is made for the appointment of a building inspector who would be paid on a fee basis similar to that provided in the ordinance now in force. It would be that official's duty to enforce the provisions of the ordinance.

Frame Dwellings Permissible

The ordinance to be acted upon Monday provides that no wall or building or any part thereof may be built, enlarged or altered until a plan of the proposed work, together with a statement of the materials to be used shall have been submitted in duplicate to the building inspector who shall issue a permit for the work if he finds the plans in accordance with the provisions of the ordinance.

Work done without a permit or not in conformity with the ordinance would be removed. The inspector also would have to issue a permit before any building could be moved in or into the borough.

The proposed measure is more liberal in that frame dwellings may (Continued on Page Two)

OFFICIAL CHECKS WEIGHT SLIPS OF COAL CARGOES

George W. Naugle, county sealer of weights and measures, said today he is conducting an intensive check on coal deliveries and weight slips following the receipt of a number of complaints of illegal slips, short weight deliveries and other irregularities.

The solid fuel law requires that the weight slip carried with each load state the kind of coal being hauled, the name of the seller, the purchaser, the price to be paid, the license number of the vehicle carrying the coal and the license number and signature of the weigh master. If a load is to be divided between two or more customers, the weight of each compartment's cargo must be stated, he explained.

He said that buyers should be sure they receive a proper weight slip with their purchases and added that if any buyer of coal or other goods has reason to think he has received short weight or measure, that person should notify Naugle promptly and investigation will be made.

The county official stated he hopes the necessity of fining local truckers will be eliminated but asserted that local truckers cannot "get away with the things for which an upstate driver would be prosecuted."

ENGLAND AND FRANCE PLEDGE AID TO POLAND

thing, most European observers anticipated.

The prime minister had been expected to qualify his guarantee by refusing to fight for Danzig or the Polish corridor.

The commitment was also a direct reversal of Chamberlain's statement of a year ago when he rejected laborite demands for a British guarantee of the frontiers of Czechoslovakia.

Scarcely an hour before the prime minister made the statement, United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy left the foreign office.

It was known that Kennedy had been in constant touch with the prime minister for the last 48 hours. Chamberlain's history-making declaration occupied less than five minutes and the house recessed after a session of only 17 minutes.

The prime minister ended with the statement that "the dominions are being kept fully informed."

3-Power Parley Planned

A foreign office spokesman who subsequently was asked whether the British guarantee to Poland applied to the Free City of Danzig and Pomorze (the Polish corridor which separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany) said:

"That question should be addressed to the Polish government."

He added, however, that the Anglo-French guarantees did not preclude the possibility of German-Polish discussions about Danzig and the corridor and indicated that the British government hoped normal talks would take place on those phases of the situation.

It generally was expected that Polish, British and French military authorities would meet soon to draft a specific plan of military action in event Poland should be attacked following Chamberlain's declaration.

He disclosed that Britain also was in close contact with Soviet Russia in reaching the momentous decision.

"The foreign secretary (Viscount Halifax) saw the Soviet ambassador (Ivan Maisky) this morning and had a very full discussion with him on the subject."

Later in reply to a laborite request "for an assurance that there are not x x ideological impediments between ourselves and Russia," Chamberlain replied:

"Yes sir! I have no hesitation in giving that assurance."

Chamberlain said that the British government was in touch with other European governments, besides Soviet Russia, in a wide attempt to curb aggression.

He specifically left the door open to the suggestion of Russia for a conference of powers but observed that there might be other effective means for discussions among European nations.

The latter part of Chamberlain's statement was made in response to questions by Arthur Greenwood, deputy leader of the laborite opposition, who said:

"May I in one sentence say that I am quite sure that this house realizes the potentialities that may arise from the statement of the prime minister."

Long Cabinet Meeting

"It may prove to be in its consequences as momentous a statement as has been made in this house for a quarter of a century."

"It is very difficult with such recent statements before the house to say very much, but I ask whether this statement which he has now made is to be regarded as the first step in a developing policy to deter or restrain aggression?"

A long meeting of the cabinet foreign affairs committee and an extraordinary session of the cabinet at the house of commons preceded the statement by the 70-year-old prime minister.

Chamberlain, fumbling with his spectacles and waving his hands, read his declaration in clipped tones.

The house of commons was jammed.

It was the first time outside of the League of Nations that Britain ever gave a bi-lateral guarantee to any country east of the Rhine.

Poland Hails Statement

Warsaw, March 31 (AP)—Polish government sources today hailed Prime Minister Chamberlain's promise of military assistance to preserve Poland's independence as likely to make Nazi Germany abandon any idea she may have had of obtaining Polish territory by threat of force.

The promise of military aid from both Britain and France came in the midst of intensive foreign office consultations preparing for Foreign Minister Joseph Beck's scheduled visit to London next week.

Italians to Wait

Reggio, Calabria, Italy, March 31 (AP)—Premier Mussolini said in a speech here today that Italians were "ready to wait" for fulfillment of their claims on France.

Fascists are thinking in terms of decades, he said.

Foreign observers regarded the statement as a further indication that Italy intended to avoid a crisis over African colonial claims on France, while trying to settle them by diplomatic means.

Alterations or additions to buildings in the borough would come under the same conditions as those for new construction.

A building or structure or any part thereof that may be or shall at any time become dangerous or unsafe shall be torn down unless made safe and secure.

While the height of fireproof buildings under the proposed measure would be unlimited, limits are placed on the heights of all other types of structures. Their floor spaces also are restricted. Sprinkler-equipped buildings may be made much larger than structures not equipped in that manner.

Wall thicknesses and materials are listed in detail. Hollow walls of brick or walls of burnt clay or concrete blocks could not be used as bearing walls in structures more than 40 feet high. Parapets would be required on certain walls. Fire-

The children will come from the Pottsville, Allentown and Reading section of the state. They will visit the capital buildings at Harrisburg on the morning of April 21 and then come to Gettysburg in the afternoon.

The visitors who will travel in about ten cars, will go directly to Little Round Top by train at 1:50 p. m. and after hearing the story of the battle will start the return to Gettysburg on foot. The train is scheduled to leave Gettysburg at 4:30 o'clock.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. William Murray, Baltimore street, are celebrating their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary today. They will spend Sunday with friends in Collegeville.

STOCK REPORT

New York, March 31 (AP)—The stock market reversed its direction today and weak issues of Thursday retrieved fractions to a point or so of their losses.

Dealings, fairly fast at the opening, dwindled about mid-way of the first hour, but picked up momentum subsequently on the cashing of profits. Near mid-day prices were well under the best and an assortment of minus signs was in evidence.

JAPS CLAIM ISLANDS

Tokyo, March 31 (AP)—The Japanese government announced today it had assumed jurisdiction over the Spratly islands, which France claimed in 1933 and which are of possible strategic value as a seaplane and submarine base.

C.C.C. CAMP IN CALEDONIA PARK WILL BE CLOSED

Washington, March 31 (AP)—The Civilian Conservation Corps announced today the current quota of Pennsylvania camps would be maintained during the six months starting April 1 with only one change in camp locations contemplated.

On June 30 the camp in Caledonia state park, Franklin county, will be closed and a new camp will be established at Hickory Run recreational demonstration area, Carbon county.

A maximum of approximately 9,800 enrollees will be engaged in conservation work in Pennsylvania during the new period.

(The C.C.C. camp, No. 2, on the Gettysburg battlefield, is one of those in Pennsylvania that will be continued.)

Harrisburg, March 31 (AP)—More than 4,500 jobless Pennsylvania youths can find places in Civilian Conservation camps on April 3, Secretary Howard L. Russell of the Department of Public Assistance, announced today.

The April quarterly enrollment to fill C.C.C. vacancies will begin on Monday and continue until April 20.

The replacement quota for Pennsylvania was set at 4,545 by Robert Fechner, national conservation corps director. The new enrollees will replace youths enrolled six months or more ago and now being mustered out. (Adams county's quota is nine enrollees.)

Actual enrollment of the youths is conducted by United States Army officers, but the advance selection and certification of eligibles is handled by the local offices of the Department of Public Assistance.

Russell said 2,413 boys would be quartered in Pennsylvania camps; 360 in camps just below the Mason-Dixon line in Maryland; 939 in Virginia and 833 in Texas, Arizona and New Mexico.

"In instructions sent to all counties," Russell said, "I have emphasized the importance of certifying a maximum number of boys from assistance families. Every boy is required to allot at least $22 of his $30 monthly pay to his family."

Hitler to Reply To Chamberlain

ened by a British prime minister," these sources said.

Chamberlain's announcement was regarded as so important and weighty by the German government that it was more than doubtful whether any official reaction would come before Hitler himself discloses what he thinks.

Men usually charged with disseminating the government's viewpoint to the foreign press acknowledged frankly that they must remain silent and let the fuhrer decide.

D.N.B. (official German news agency) issued a lengthy report of the prime minister's momentous statement to the British house of commons but the government radio had not mentioned it up to 5:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m., E.S.T.).

In government offices, especially those having anything to do with foreign policy, it was apparent, however, that Hitler was believed to have been greatly angered.

The consensus was that the fuhrer could not tolerate such a development.

It was believed that having erected what he considers a strong eastern and southern front of friends—Italy, Hungary, Slovakia, Yugoslavia and Bohemia-Moravia—he cannot afford to have Poland accepting British and French military aid.

Dodgers Secure Todd In Baseball Trade

Clearwater, Fla., March 31 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today traded Bill Posedel, 33-year old right-handed pitcher, to the Boston Bees for Catcher Al Todd.

Todd, obtained by the Bees from the Pittsburgh Pirates in a winter swap, hit at a .265 clip last season. That was Posedel's first with the Dodgers. He won eight games and lost nine.

Since Todd's acquisition gives Brooklyn six catchers, it was believed today's deal was merely a fore-runner to another swap by the Dodgers. They have been reported negotiating with the Phillies for Pitcher Hugh Mulcahy.

ROOSEVELT'S GRANDSON REMAINS UNNAMED

Seattle, March 31 (AP)—The newest member of a famous family was still nameless today.

John Boettiger, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, said no name had been selected for his new son, born to Mrs. Boettiger Thursday at a Seattle hospital.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was in attendance when her new nine pound, one ounce grandson arrived while Boettiger, publisher of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, paced the corridor.

Mrs. Boettiger has two children by her former marriage, Anna Eleanor (Sistie), 12, and Curtis (Buzzie) Dall, 8.

NO HOLIDAY

Scranton, Pa., March 31 (AP)—Fireman William Richards took a "busman's holiday" on his day off and was at a suburban firehouse when an alarm came in. Hopping on the truck, he went along to the fire—"just for the ride." But it wasn't any holiday when he discovered it was his own house afire.

rebuttal. John MacPhail is the alternate speaker.

The Gettysburg debaters will uphold the affirmative side of the question used in preliminary meets—"Resolved: That the United States should establish an alliance with Great Britain." In a preliminary meet recently Gettysburg debaters defeated a Hanover team. Gettysburg presented the negative arguments on that occasion. Judges from the college will decide the winners in Saturday's meet.

The high school students will be guests of the college at the evening banquet as well as for luncheon at noon.

The after-dinner speaker for Gettysburg high in the evening competition will be Eugene Hartman. His subject will be "Holmes' Humor." He and other competitors will speak for five minutes each on a sub-division of the general subject of "Our World as the Poets Saw It."

Last year Gettysburg high school entrants won first place in the extemporaneous speaking contest and tied for second honors in after-dinner speaking. Gettysburg did not reach the debate finals last year. Hanover defeated Carlisle for the debating championship.

DAM BREAKS, CAUSING FLOOD AT TOWANDA

Towanda, Pa., March 31 (AP)—A million gallons of water, released by a break in a reservoir, swept through the southern end of town today, causing considerable property damage but no personal injury.

Rushing through the streets from the hill where the reservoir stood, the water filled houses, blocked United States highway 220 and the tracks of the Susquehanna and York railroad and spilled into the Susquehanna river a mile away.

The accident, caused when a landslide left the reservoir wall unprotected, occurred at 2:30 a. m. The wall broke from the strain. Frightened families, aroused from their sleep, wondered for a moment whether it was an "earthquake" or "cloudburst."

The reservoir, of a 2,500,000-gallon capacity, was the larger of two that supply this Bradford county community of 4,100.

LOOKING AROUND

A number of Atlantic Refining company dealers in Adams county will attend a meeting in the Yorktown hotel, Wednesday evening, April 12, at 7:30 o'clock at which Ira Thomas, scout for the Philadelphia Athletics, will be the guest speaker. C. E. Trumppfeller, district manager, will be the toastmaster. Motion pictures of baseball schools will be shown. A club to be known as the Atlantic Baseball club will be formed for boys in this section between the ages of 12 and 18. Application blanks may be secured from dealers. Members of the club are eligible to participate in an essay contest on "Why I Like to Play Baseball." Three first prizes, grouped according to ages, will be given and will consist of a pair of tickets to the first two World Series games.

Local golfers will be happy to know the Caledonia golf course, operated by Mrs. R. C. Miller, has been completely reconditioned and is now ready for play.

A squad of 26 candidates have been working out for the Biglerville high school baseball team during the last two weeks under the direction of Coach Cyrus Bucher. Tom Enck, first baseman, and Fred McCauslin, catcher, are the only lettermen remaining. Others left from last year's squad are Donald Peters and Arthur Koontz, outfielders; Oyler and Junior Black, pitchers; Donald Group, second baseman, and Norman Baumgardner, third baseman. New candidates for the squad are Ralph Yohe, Lawrence Schackel, Donald Rice, Glenn Freidline, Ralph Bretzman, Nelson Welch, Harry Meals, Walter Fohl, Waybright Thomas, Clyde Heller, Kenneth Rockey, Roland Kime, Delmar Kime, James Smallwood, Benjamin Funk and Robert Deardorff.

Coach Bucher reports the squad has shown promise in recent workouts. However, the weak spot will be the pitching with Oyler scheduled to bear the brunt of the hurling. On Monday Coach Bucher will cut his squad to 18 players.

Games in addition to the county league schedule are: May 3, Boiling Springs, away; May 8, Newville, at home; May 15, Newville, away; May 20, Elizabethtown, home; May 23, Boiling Springs, home. It has also been announced that Littlestown will play at Biglerville as the opening county league game on April 11.

Training Camp Briefs

New Orleans—Bob Feller, who pitched four scoreless innings against the Philadelphia Athletics Thursday, now has the best spring record among the Cleveland Indian hurlers. In 12 innings against major league opposition he has allowed only four hits and one run.

San Antonio, Tex.—If the Philadelphia Phillies weren't scared to death by the St. Louis Browns' 21 to 2 walloping of the University of Texas Longhorns Thursday they will tangle with the Browns today. Counting today's contest the two teams have three more meetings. The Browns have won their seven previous encounters.

Lakeland, Fla.—Silence may be golden, but manager Del Baker has found occasion to dispute it with his Detroit Tigers. Noticing his Tigers weren't drawing any roars or even puffs from the Detroit dugout in an exhibition game, Baker, investigated and found, among other evidences of disinterest, a rookie stretched out on the bench asleep. Baker then kept his hirelings awake with an inning-long lecture.

San Francisco—The Pittsburgh Pirates left the Pacific coast behind today and looped southward for home. The Pirate regulars will play the University of Arizona at Tucson Saturday while Manager Pie Traynor gets into harness at third base again to lead a yaniganian squad in an exhibition at Nogales, Mexico. Today's Talk

By George Matthew Adams

THE CITY OF HONOLULU

HONOLULU, T. H. — Oahu is the island on which is located the famed city of Honolulu. It is the third in size of the islands which comprise the Hawaiian group, Hawaii, on which the big volcano is located, being the largest. Oahu has an area of 604 square miles.

Honolulu is the capital of the Territory. It is a modern city with all improvements. It has a population of nearly 150,000 of mixed nationalities. It is located on the low plain that lies at the foot of what is known as the Koolau Range. It is a busy city with a large foreign and coastwise trade. All about the hills and valleys are located attractive homes that stand out in the sunshine, nestle along the shore, or are hidden, or smothered, by gardens and flowers that challenge the imagination.

Honolulu is a city unique. I saw a truck driver pass in the street with a lot of flowers about his neck, one wound about his hat — and a bouquet of Poinsettias tied to the end of the lumber of his truck instead of the proverbial red flag!

Travelers arrive at the hotels with these astonishingly beautiful leis of flowers about their necks, glancing around as though in a world of wonder — as, of course, they are. Flowers grow everywhere. In every direction you see color. And this is March! It has never been hotter in Honolulu than 88 degrees nor colder than 56 degrees during the operation of the U. S. Weather bureau here. You might say that is perpetual Spring, or Summer. Certainly it is perpetual happiness!

You see no hurry upon the street, and yet there is always work to be done. This is a progressive city, a city of beautiful buildings, fine schools, a splendid University, a beautiful Art Museum, and almost no unemployment! It is one of the healthiest cities in the world.

Clouds hover about the distant mountains and preseat a spectacle of unusual interest. Rains come to nourish the earth in frequent intervals. Beautiful estates literally cling to the sides of the volcanic cliffs that look out upon the broad Pacific. And all through the valleys are beautiful homes — from mansions to simple huts where natives live and work.

Driving about the city you turn into a narrow little street, and there you see one of the most dramatic Banyan trees ever viewed. It is the tree that Robert Louis Stevenson loved, and is now known by his name.

Two progressive newspapers keep the people here informed upon local and world events.

W.P.A. TO DROP 29,000 WORKERS OVER WEEK-END

Harrisburg, March 31 (AP)—State W.P.A. headquarters drafted discharge papers today for 29,000 workers — representing approximately 90,000 dependents.

The dismissals, effective this week-end, were made necessary because of a congressional slash in W.P.A. relief funds.

Deputy Administrator Lee Walker said federal W.P.A. officials ordered the Pennsylvania office to reduce its case load from 243,000 employees to meet a new April quota of 204,000.

The prospect of these dismissals immediately raised the question of the effect they might have on the commonwealth's heavy direct relief load, which recently started downward.

Howard L. Russell, secretary of Public Assistance, estimated between 50 and 75 per cent of those laid off would move onto the relief rolls after a three-week waiting period. Statisticians estimated they would represent about 45,000 dependents.

The number of persons dependent on unemployment relief in Pennsylvania has declined approximately 17,000, to a present level of approximately 750,000, within the last few weeks, as a result of increased private employment and slackened cuts in W.P.A. rolls.

While W.P.A. and relief took the spotlight, there were these other developments in the capitol:

1—Anthracite operators, meeting with Governor James and union leaders, agreed upon a four-day work-week for April, subject to change by a committee named by the governor. Collieries were on an experimental three-day week this month. James disapproved price-fixing for the industry.

2—A special republican committee reported that in many cases "tax claims have been filed against properties for long periods when the owners were well able to pay up," and outlined a series of bills intended to correct the situation.

3—Adjutant General Edward Martin announced Pennsylvania's National Guard infantry regiments would be re-organized next fall. He said organization of the 22nd cavalry division, including Pennsylvania troops, awaited further study of several problems.

The W.P.A. reduction, said Walker, would affect principally the highway work programs distributed over the state, and the slash would cut most heavily into districts with major highway programs.

Another plan, to set up a sort of miniature W.P.A. within the direct-relief system without competing with the works progress administration, was put into legislative form for introduction when the general assembly reconvenes next week.

Recipients of direct relief could be required by the county assistance boards to work for their keep, if local communities could provide projects.

Another provision in the republican program to decentralize relief—one that Rep. Robert E. Woodside, Jr., (R-Dauphin) said would wipe out civil service for administrative workers handling direct relief—was attacked by the workers' alliance.

Joseph Kres, Alliance president, wrote Rep. John E. Van Allsburg (R-Erie), sponsor of the bill, that it would "seriously undermine, if not entirely destroy, the public assistance system in Pennsylvania."

Kres asked Van Allsburg to arrange an open hearing on the measure.

MONTGOMERY WARD

Old Home Week Murder

—BY PHOEBE ATWOOD TAYLOR—

The Characters
Asey Mayo, Cape Cod sleuth.
Mike Slade, vociferous artist.

Yesterday: By telling the Brinleys they are just victims of a publicity seeker, Asey convinces them there has been no murder.

Chapter 23 'It's A Conspiracy'

"NOW you know," Dr. Cummings sat down on an overturned lobster pot, "the trouble with Slade, Asey, he never made enough to live as an artist, and on the rare occasions when he did make anything, he never bought proper food. Now he has this town job, his disposition's improved some. He doesn't rant quite so much. You know, Asey, I've always thought communism is a sort of religion, and the people who get any religion really violently, they always have some quirk somewhere, and usually it's the digestive system. A well fed person doesn't care two cents for causes. They accept things. But you take a digestion—" "Ain't you," Asey said, "sort of harpin' on the digestive system to-night?"

"Well," Cummings said defensively, "I read a book about it last night. Today — anyway, before I got into bed a while ago. The fellow goes too far, of course, they all do, but — oh, go on!"

Asey didn't remind him that he hadn't been given any chance to begin let alone to continue.

"Slade," he said, "I'm tired. Let's get this over with. How'd you know about the murder? Man alive, I didn't like this nonsense any more than you do! But if you smash up furniture and act in general like a fool kid, what can we do? Now, come on. Who told you about the murder? How'd you know?"

"Jane wrote me a note. I got it this evening. She's frightened to death, and why shouldn't she be, with all of you bullying her —"

"No one's bullied her, Slade. Don't be foolish. Why did you want all the money Emily Slade could give you?"

"Oh, to get away, you fool! To get Jane away — that's why I came here tonight. To take her away from all of you, and all of this before it's too late!"

"But —"

"And I would have taken her, too, if Eloise hadn't gummed it up!"

"What's he talking about?" Cummings asked curiously. "He doesn't smell drunk —"

"Drunk? I'm not drunk! But I know what I'm talking about!"

Slade yelled. "It's a conspiracy! It's all a conspiracy! The dirty Chase money they've piled up out of their filthy baked beans —"

He went on at some length about the dirty Chase money.

"I'm wrong about the digestive system," Cummings said while Slade paused for breath. "I don't think it's the digestive system at all, Asey. It's glandular. On the other hand — say, Mike, do you have many headaches? Does it ever seem to you that your hands, or arms, or head — or any part of you — just floated in space? Because —"

Slade got his breath and began again.

Asey listened to the tirade, trying to piece together some sort of story from it.

Set Ideas

Slade had made up his mind that Asey and the rest, with the consent of the police and the town officers, had decided to shield the real murderers of Mary Randall. He was very set on that point, and he illustrated his ideas with any number of cases from Czarist Russia, Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany. But because eventually the murder would have to come to light and be made public, Slade felt that Jane Warren had been picked as the official scapegoat.

"And while you're bullying her, and getting your fake case made as water tight as you can, you withhold all the story from the public. From the people. From everyone who has any right to know. All to save your town, and its moneymaking schemes! It's a conspiracy."

"It's indigestion, that's what it is," Cummings said. "What did you have for supper?"

"Baked beans," Slade was caught off guard by the doctor's professional tones.

"No wonder," Asey said, "why, in your situation, I think Chase's Baked Beans would upset me. Let's get this idea of yours about Jane and Zeb again. You wandered off and mixed me up when you footnoted on Spain."

It was simple Slade said. Jane would be arrested for the murder. If she promised to marry Zeb, then the dirty Chase money would get her off. Obviously, to get off, it would take the dirty Chase money, and she couldn't get the dirty Chase money without taking dirty Chase's Zeb along with it.

Asey laughed when he finished. "I can't help it," he said. "You've gone all around Robin Hood's barn — honest, you couldn't be more wrong. Did Jane write you in this note that anything like that had been suggested?"

"No, but she said Eloise had suggested and hinted at it. But I know. You can't pull the wool over my eyes. I —"

"Slade, listen. Jane bought a shotgun. Where is it?"

"She bought the gun for me, for a present! She knew I wanted a new one —"

"Fine. Is that the gun you up to brandish the other night up to the midway?"

"No, that was my old one. But shotguns don't make any difference —"

"They do, Asey said. 'Where's your new gun now?'"

"Oh, it's been stolen! It was stolen from my studio the night of the fire. Don't you see," Slade demanded hotly, "it's a conspiracy? Someone steal the gun that Jane gave me, that night, and kills Mary Randall with it. Then you find it, and then —"

'No Kulak'

"Now," Asey said, "we're gettin' some place. Jane bought a gun, gave it to you, someone steals it from you on Monday night. Was that what made you run off and hide, after shootin' your mouth off all over town, an' gettin' Brinley's goat, an' workin' up the Old Settlers?"

"No, you fool!" Slade said. "Of course it wasn't! And you're supposed to be a detective! Can't you get anything straight at all?"

"With a mite of co-operation," Asey said, "I might pick out the gist of this, but right now you put me in mind of Mrs. J. Arthur Brinley. Well, we'll go to it again. Maybe we'll get it by degrees. I saw you Monday night at a brush fire near your studio. You was burned, an' worried about your paintings. Next thing, I hear you're ramplin' around town with a shotgun. Why, exactly?"

"Because the fire was set, don't you see? Someone intended to burn down my studio! I found places later where kerosene had been poured around! And someone had stolen my gun, too. And I was mad. So I took my old gun and went up to town to show people that they couldn't intimidate me! I'm no —"

"You're no kulak," Asey said. "We know. Doc, your wife was caught on the ferris wheel when it stuck, wasn't she?"

"And," Cummings said feelingly, "and how! She and Bessie Brinley both. What they told the man who runs it isn't fit to print. She'll never get over that. It was better than the time she got stuck in an elevator in Boston for eight hours, and they threw ham sandwiches in at her from the fourth floor. She seems to have a bad effect on elevating machinery, somehow."

"Doc, you was there at the midway, wasn't you at the time?"

"My, yes. I gave her moral support until Nellie sent someone to tell me that you wanted me. My wife —"

"How long, now," Asey said, "were you there before Nellie sent someone?"

"Half an hour or more. They were up there an hour and a half, all told. And, by George, all told, too!"

The doctor laughed heartily at his own joke.

"Uh-huh. Now, did you see Slade?"

"Man alive, everyone saw Slade. Couldn't miss him. He and the stuck ferris wheel were major attractions. Lots of people thought he was some sort of clown connected with the midway. He made quite a sensational appearance —"

"Doc," Asey said patiently, "I'm gettin' at something. Was Slade there when you came?"

"Oh, yes. He was practically the first person I saw and I was going to offer some helpful suggestions about bed and the necessity for relaxing — that's another trouble with you, Mike. You don't relax enough. You're getting along in your thirties now, and you've got to realize that you can't keep up your youthful pace forever —"

"Doc!" Asey said. "Listen to me, will you? Slade was there when you came, an' that was half an hour before you was called to the phone. Now, is that right?"

"Yes," Cummings said, "why?"

"He was there during the last part of Philbrick's fireworks display?"

"I'm sure of it. He stood near me — why yes he was there. He made some crack about the last piece —"

"That's all I want to know," Asey said. "Mary Randall was killed just before the final piece of fireworks went off. If Slade was up at the midway, that accounts for him. Seems to me it took a lot of pryin' to get that out of you two. Now, Slade, let's get back to your yarn."

again. Your idea in flippin' that note was to get enough money from Madame Thingummy to take Jane an' beat it. That's what you was climbin' the maple for, huh, to get Jane? Did it ever occur to you that the fellow who runs away is most usually considered the guilty one?"

Slade opened his mouth and closed it again. "Why — us — why, no. But we wouldn't be running away from —"

"No. But it wouldn't help you any to run, would it? In fact, if you was in my place, how'd you feel if the two of you beat it?"

UNUSUAL OPERA GROUP

TO APPEAR AT FAIR

Visitors to the gas industry's "Court of Flame" exhibit at the New York World's fair will see an unusual opera performance. H. Harold Miller, of the Gettysburg Gas corporation, has announced after receiving advance details from Hugh H. Outhrell, president of Gas Exhibits, Inc., in New York. For the first time in exposition history, 160 puppet stars, members of the American Puppet Opera company, will present a repertory of seven popular operas. It is expected that this attraction will draw thousands to the theatre of the gas industry's exhibit group where these operatic performances will be presented several times daily.

OPENS FOR BUSINESS

Saturday, April 1, 1939

THE THRIFT CORPORATION:

WHAT IT IS—The small loan corporation just established in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, is a financial institution performing the same service for the salaried and working man that a bank of deposit gives to the big business man.

WHAT IT DOES—Persons of moderate means can secure loans in any amount up to $300 at very reasonable rates. These amounts may be paid by small weekly or monthly payments, over a long period, making payments small.

SAVES EMBARRASSMENT:

The Thrift Plan of Gettysburg, Inc., helps you to eliminate the worry of unpaid accounts, if you have any. You do not have to be embarrassed by collectors and your creditors.

Suppose you feel that you need and should have some useful article. Come to us. We will show you how you can get it. You pay cash for the article and are under obligation to no one. You choose the day when you want to make your repayments, either weekly, semi-monthly, or monthly. In the meanwhile, you have used the article you want and have not missed the small repayments you have made.

PAINT YOUR HOUSE OR HAVE REPAIRS MADE:

Suppose your home needs to be painted or repairs made on it. The work can be done by the plasterer, plumber, contractor, electrician or painter—then you sign a note with The Thrift Plan of Gettysburg, Inc., and pay it off in regular monthly or weekly installments.

BORROW MONEY FROM US—NOT FROM YOUR MERCHANTS:

If you owe your merchant a bill and do not pay him, he is forced to charge for financing you or lose money on the account. He borrows from a bank to be able to carry your account. A charge account is overdue after thirty days. Meet your accounts promptly and keep your credit good and thus avoid the annoyance of extended debt.

THE THRIFT PLAN OF GETTYSBURG, INC., CAN HELP YOU:

To people of character we lend money on easy and moderate terms. It is a dignified, practical, honorable method offered to worthy self-respecting persons by a sound self-respecting institution.

COME IN AND LET US EXPLAIN OUR PLAN FULLY. AN INTERVIEW COSTS NOTHING:

All transactions are held in confidence. You need not hesitate to consult us as how to pay your outstanding bills. To owe a bill is no disgrace, but not to pay it often is. We are in business to lend to working men, and others.

JUDGE THIS INSTITUTION BY THE MEN BEHIND IT:

Read the names of our Directors and you will be convinced of the fact that these men put their money into this institution, together with many others of equal prominence, to give the ordinary working man an opportunity to borrow money without paying too much for it.

A consultation with us will convince you of the practicability and reliability of our service to you.

latest contribution toward modern aviation.
Constructed by the Junkers works the engine is described as being not much heavier than the motor of a big passenger car, it is said to develop 1,200 hp.
The place of the carburetor is taken by a fuel pump which injects an inflammable mixture of gasoline and air into the cylinders. As every cylinder is served individually, the proper mixture remains assured at all speeds, changes of temperature or weather conditions, it was stated.
Another claim that the danger of fire is reduced greatly by this system of pump feeding, as no inflammable mixture is formed outside of the combustion chambers.
Another advantage is said to be a considerable saving of fuel as compared to a carburetor-equipped motor of the same size. The saving is estimated at between 15 and 20 per cent, which means greater flying range or increased payload.

THE NEW 1940 RINSO GIVES FAR RICHER SUDS... IT SOAKS CLOTHES CLEAN QUICKLY AND SAFELY WITHOUT HARD SCRUBBING OR BOILING

says Mrs. Mabel Bowen, famous home-making expert

THE NEW 'suds-boosting' ingredient that has been added to the New Rinso makes the soap give far richer suds even in water as hard as nails. These grand suds get clothes dazzling white and keep washable colors bright and fresh-looking. I always remind women who attend my lectures that because Rinso soaks clothes clean quickly and safely without hard scrubbing or boiling, clothes are bound to last longer. I find the New 1940 Rinso loosens grease from dishes quickly and that it is kind as ever to hands.

"Clean House"
OF UNNECESSARY EXPENSES

It is a good idea to have a financial "house cleaning," too, now and then. We all have expenses which we could cut out without losing any real enjoyment but we let these unnecessary items accumulate like the old hats and shoes in our closets. We know we ought to throw the stuff away but through sentiment or lack of courage we hesitate.
Perhaps YOU ought to have a financial "house cleaning" right now. Plan better, and bank the difference.
